

To Joey Taylor

Hello Joey I'm sure you never thought I would write you. But as I sat out here in a cave some where I can't speak of I figured I needed to do this. I understand you and crystal are to be married. I have no problem what so ever with this. Since I've found out alot about you I'm sure you are thinking who cares right. That's fine I would expect that from you. understand this Joey I don't care about you I don't care that you think I'm a joke. when you meet me I gaurranty you will find out I'm not a joke I'm a Ranger and we fear nothing or knowone. so you need to understand this I don't care what kelly or crystal or the Thomas's say about me because their are alot of people out there that thank me everyday for what I do and I can say this atleast I have enough guts to do what I'm doing. So the next time you think I'm a joke just Remember you wish you had half the guts I have. and were half the man I am! also Remember this those are my kids so anything that happens to them I will hold you responsible.
